CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON

Contagious Blood Poison is the most degrading and destructive of all diseases, as it vitiates and corrupts the entire system. The first sore or ulcer is followed by little red pimples on the body, mouth and throat become sore, the glands enlarge and inflame, copper colored spots appear, and hair and eyebrows fall out. These are some of the milder symptoms; they increase in severity, finally attacking the vital organs; the body is tortured with rheumatic pains and covered with offensive sores.

It is a peculiar poison, and so highly contagious that an innocent person handling the same articles used by one infected with this loathsome disease, may be inoculated with the virus. It can be transmitted from parent to child, appearing as the same disease or in a modified form—like Eczema or Scrofula.

Many an old sore or stubborn skin trouble appearing in middle life, is due and traceable to blood poison contracted in early life. You may have taken poison and mercury faithfully for two or three years and thought you were cured, but you were not, for these poisonous minerals never cure this disease; they drive it from the outside, but it is doing its work on the inside, and will show up again sooner or later. You may not recognize it as the same old taint, but it is. S. S. S. has cured thousands of cases of Contagious Blood Poison, and it will cure you. It is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known, and the only antidote for this poison. S. S. S. cleanses the blood thoroughly of every particle of the poison—there is never any return of the disease.

CURE YOURSELF AT HOME. Send for our Home Treatment book, which gives a history of the disease in all stages, and is the result of many years of close study of blood poison and actual experience in treating it. You can cure yourself perfectly and permanently at home, and your secret is your own. Should you need any information or medical advice at any time, write to our physicians. They have made a life study of blood diseases, and will give your letter prompt and careful attention. Consult them as often as you please; we make no charge whatever for this service. AMUSEMENTS.

The Charleston News and Courier has the following to say of this comedy, which is to be the attraction at the Academy of Music Friday night and Saturday matinee and night:

"Why Smith Left Home" was very apparent to every person in the large audience at the Academy of Music last night. He had troubles of his own and those of several others, and then things were not just what one would want as accompaniments to that sweet old story called the honeymoon. Byron is understood to have said he liked quiet, and most men do; newly married men like nothing so well as being left alone with their new little wives, and when brothers-in-law and all the other law relatives on the calendar appear and make themselves at home in the home selected for a honeymoon, then it soon gets to be time for a trip to Niagara Falls or Washington, for even though strangers will laugh and stare, they cannot intrude too far, and it isn't necessary to sit opposite them at the tables or find them always in the parlors or in the hallways. John Smith, of New York, having married a wife and started on his wedded life at home, finds very soon that law relatives are beginning to look upon his hospitable roof as a hotel where guests have everything except the bill at the end of the week. The cook is finally bribed to "cook" the unwelcome guests and she earns her promised reward in good style. By the time the unprofitable boarders have found that they are needed elsewhere Mr. and Mrs. Smith decide to close up the house and "leave home" for awhile.

Mr. Broadhurst has contributed a very merry farce in Why Smith Left Home, and there was no one in the Academy last night who failed to appreciate it. The parts were all well cast and sustained admirably. The idea was amusement, and that almost incessant laughter and applause were tributes alike to writer and players.

THE JEFFRIES-SHARKEY PICTURES.

The authorized pictures of the recent glove fight between James J. Jeffries and Thomas Sharkey for the heavyweight championship of the world at the Coney Island Athletic Club on the night of November 3d will be shown at the Academy Tuesday and Wednesday, April 3d and 4th, and should make a unique entertainment.

Stress is laid by the management upon the fact that as yet the genuine pictures of the fight have not been shown at the Academy. It is explained, were taken by direct arrangement with William A. Brady, acting as manager for Jeffries, and Thomas O'Rourke, on the one hand, and the concern that controls the biograph. All arrangements are understood to have been made for the utilization of the very latest devices in motion-photography in the taking of the films, and it is declared that for the first time the effort to take pictures by artificial light was crowned with success. The pictures have been on exhibition in the New York theatres for several weeks, and reports are to the effect that they are the most satisfactory ever shown with regard to a ring battle. Popular prices will prevail, viz., 25, 25 and 50c.

About the Constitution.

Editor Virginian-Pilot:

Dear Sir,—It looks to me, when I read your paper, that your party intends to make a new Constitution for the office-holders in Virginia. I see last week your scribe went through the Fourth Ward and asked the boys their opinion or thoughts. This week I see he went a little higher up, around the house and new market. Mr. Editor, my experience in politics is that those gentlemen have nothing to do with the matter whatever. If the Constitution is changed at all, which I doubt, but if done nobody except half a dozen men will make it, and it will be made for the rich and not for the poor. My idea is that a Constitution ought to be framed out of the Bible. How many preachers will go as delegates? They certainly could make a better Constitution than a lot of ward or cross-roads politicians. I see one of your office-holders claims that the Underwood Constitution was made by Republican carpet-baggers. Let us say, for the sake of argument, that we call the next Constitution a Senator Martin Constitution. Under the Underwood Constitution most every carpet-bagger and negro (and, I may say, the whole Republican party), went out of existence in the State of Virginia.

Now, Mr. Editor, when I look over the Democratic office-holders in the city of Norfolk, the majority of them are carpetbaggers. How is that? I thought what was good for the goose was good for the gander. I hope you won't defeat my Democratic carpet-bagger friend in the next city election. Now, Mr. Editor, don't you know it costs thousands of dollars to frame a Constitution. This money must be paid by the tax-payers, irrespective of party. The delegates that will go to the convention, the most of them will only say "Amen!"

Now, Mr. Editor, I have another little matter. I have watched the Legislature of Virginia since the Underwood Constitution was framed, and I last saw at last the Legislature, in the last session, passed a law where every one has to carry the burden of the State, rich or poor, equal; but now they tell me that this law is not Constitutional, and I see the Bankers & Co. have engaged some of the best lawyers in Virginia to go to the Court of Appeals to have it upset.

Mr. Editor, now for our children and for the people in the State of Virginia, and especially the God-fearing people, let us unite, irrespective of party or religion, and change the present election law. There is nothing more dangerous to the young generation than this infamous law. I could write a book on this matter.

WASHINGTON
NEWS AND GOSSIP

feeling the measure had aroused throughout the country, a righteous indignation from every walk of life. He maintained that a tariff could not be levied as between Porto Rico and the United States, although it was perfectly competent for Congress to provide for the collection of internal revenue on the island. This, he said, was indubitably constitutional.

"Why insist," he asked, "upon a tariff upon the products of the island by a bill which is so ephemeral as to expire in a year and a day? Why, indeed, insist upon the provisions of this measure when it would be far better to let existing conditions continue?"

The whole project of levying a tariff on Porto Rican products was self-generated of objections, he said—objections which spring from every possible source.

AN ARGUMENT RIDICULED. He ridiculed the argument as to the protection the 15 per cent. tariff would afford to our products and labor. No protectionist, he said, would contend that 15 per cent. of the Dingley rates would afford adequate protection for anything. Advertising to the Philippines as a factor in the Porto Rican problem, Mr. Davis said:

"When we come to deal with the Philippine question we will take care of that. Sufficient unto the day is the evil and good thereof. Porto Rico is little more than seven hundred miles from our coast; the Philippines are eight thousand. The island of Porto Rico is naturally a part of the North American jurisdiction; the Philippines are a part of the domain of Asia. Against the product and people of the Philippines, when the time comes, the rights of American labor will be protected by any party that may be in power."

INCONSISTENCY.

Mr. Davis said it was inconsistent to extend our laws relating to the coastwise trade to the island and not extend our tariff laws. As to the feeling in the country upon this question, he said the issue is understood by the people, and the sentiment speaks out to us week after week in constantly swelling volume.

"They understand well, too, that upon distilled spirits and tobacco there is not an imposition of a mill of taxation by this bill. The subjects of taxation upon which we place heavy burdens go free on the island of Porto Rico. And what do they propose as an exchange for that kind of taxation? Why the imposition of a tariff? It is so easy to place a tax upon these articles that I shall be surprised if the proposition to do so does not meet the approval of Congress and the people. What are the people going to say if this bill passes? They will say: 'Free run and a tax on the flour the people eat.'"

PATHWAY OF DUTY.

Mr. Davis said that no man could tell how much the tariff would yield, and as no man could say that the export tax was constitutional, it seemed to him that there ought to be no hesitation as to the course to be pursued, the pathway of plain duty.

The Senate then at 3:50 p. m. adjourned.

SPEAKER HENDERSON.

EXPLAINS HIS ATTITUDE TOWARD PORTO RICO.

(By Telegraph to Virginian-Pilot.)

Dubuque, Iowa, March 28.—The following letter, written by Speaker Henderson to Hon. Ed. Knott, United States Marshal for the Northern District of Iowa, was received to-day. It shows his position and that of the other Republican members of the House who voted for the passage of the Porto Rican Tariff bill:

"My Dear Mr. Knott: "Yours of 24th, about Porto Rico, is received. I cannot gather from your letter what you personally think of our action in the House, or what you think of the President who thoroughly agreed with us, and worked with night and main to get the House bill passed, and has been working in the Senate.

The question for me to settle, as an individual representative, is what is my duty? That question I asked and answered when I worked with my associates to pass the Porto Rican bill.

"Now let me get this matter clearly in your mind, Mr. Knott, for sooner or later the country will understand our position.

First—There are large quantities of tobacco and sugar in Porto Rico bought up by trusts and syndicates. They want to get that into the United States free of any duty, and when once in, of course, it will sell in the markets at the same rates as the tobacco and sugar which have to pay the full tariff rates, thus giving hundreds of thousands of dollars' profit to the syndicates, etc. The trusts and syndicates are fighting the bill, and I have given you the reason why. There has not been, nor is there now, to my knowledge, a lobby here working for the Porto Rican bill, but these syndicates and the selfish interests of New England and other interests, including the flour interests, are all trying to get into Porto Rico without paying the 15 per cent. duty on their product as proposed in the bill. While under the Dingley law a tax of one dollar, to illustrate, is imposed upon a certain article, under the House bill it would only pay 15 cents.

Second—Now, why have I imposed this fifteen per cent. of the Dingley tariff? Porto Rico is poor, and has been swept by devastating and destructive floods. Her people are not at this time, and in their present condition, are able to pay the expenses of their Government, and one wants the United States to pay the expenses of running the Government of any of our several new possessions. The people themselves in each of the islands, or groups, should pay their own expenses. How is Porto Rico to do this, now that she has no local government? We must first give her a local government, and both Houses of Congress are at work upon that problem, and in my opinion that problem will be wisely solved when it is done. But it will take a year and a half, or two years, to formulate a government for her, and to put it in running order, so that those people, with their own government machinery, may raise money to run their own government. In the meantime what should we do? Follow the advice of the syndicates and trusts and tax this desolate island, or their lands, or their limited productions, or do as we propose—put this trifling duty upon their exports and imports and give every dollar of it back to them and run their Government?

This will be felt by none except the syndicates and trusts and rich interests that will do the buying there and the shipping to Porto Rico. Indirectly, of course, some of this will be paid by the consumers, but it will fall lightly upon them, and the burden will be imperceptible, while the direct tax would be simply brutal and inhuman. The bill also provides that this tax shall expire in two years, which is time enough to allow the government machinery of Porto Rico to get into working order. There is no proposition to put a permanent burden on Porto Rico, but it is merely a temporary expedient for her own interest.

My friend, never was a bill so misrepresented and misunderstood as our Porto Rican bill, and the time will come, in the near future, when those who propose a direct tax, which would result from absolute free trade, will suffer in every possible way for their misguided conduct, for their selfish acts.

"What the Senate is going to do is problematical. It has its share of cowards. The Senate is always the body upon which the great interests concentrate their efforts to defeat proper legislation. But this fact remains, that I have the knowledge that I have done my simple duty, and have done it in consultation and co-operation with the President of the United States, whose heart is quick to feel the afflictions of this little island; I have done in conference with such men as Allison, Foraker, and the earnest patriots of the Senate, who, defying special interests and combinations, are trying to map out a plan, and for the present needs of Porto Rico, and to keep our country so that it will be unfettered and fitted for the wise treatment needed for all of those new possessions.

"I am, my friend,

"Yours very truly,

"(Signed) D. B. HENDERSON.

"Hon. Edward Knott, Waverly, Iowa."

The citizens up town were very much alarmed by a gang of tramps, who were brought in town yesterday afternoon on one of the Norfolk and Western freight trains. It was about supper time, and they made a raid on the citizens for that meal. Two white boys were also held up by two unknown white men thought, from their appearance, to be members of the hobo gang. The boys, however, began to yell, and the two men fled. The officers were notified and began a hasty search, but until a late hour no arrests had been made. One white tramp was found drunk up town by Officer Parker and placed in the lockup, and was ordered out of town by the Mayor later in the evening.

DETECTIVES IN SEARCH OF MORE GOEBEL MURDERERS.

(By Telegraph to Virginian-Pilot.)

Frankfort, Ky., March 28.—Detective Armstrong left to-night for Eastern Kentucky, and it is reported that he has warrants for more Republican State officers and other persons equally prominent. It is said that these warrants are based on information furnished by W. R. Culton, who is said to have confessed. Culton is a deputy under Auditor of State Sweeney. Culton was in the executive building previous to the incursion of mountaineers, and at the time of Goebel's assassination, and it is said he has told about conferences and conversations around the State building during January. All sorts of rumors are circulated about what Culton has said and about his wholesale charges against State officers, deputies and clerks.

Colonel T. C. Campbell and Arthur Goebel went to Cincinnati to-day.

THE PRESIDENT INTERFERES.

Washington, March 28.—The President has informed Kentucky Republicans that while he cannot interfere in Kentucky affairs to the extent of disarming the militia of either faction, he is willing, so far as he can legally do so, to remove the Republican officials of that State from the de facto offices. He told them in the same connection that he would give directions that all addressed to an official by title only, as to "The Governor," or "The Secretary of State," should be delivered to the Republicans holding those offices, and not to the Democrats. The Postmaster General has sent the following telegram to Postmaster Holmes, at Frankfort:

"Replying to your telegram, mail addressed to official persons by name is to be delivered to the persons named. Mail addressed to State officers without designation by names is to be delivered to the actual incumbents of the office. The mere fact that Contest Board has given certificate to contestants will not justify delivery of mail matter of latter class to them until they are lawfully inducted into office. This reply is based upon your statement that contestants still hold the office.
